WAYNESBURG — A Waynesburg woman with family ties to a former Lincoln County judge-executive has been charged with murder after allegedly shooting her husband in the head while he slept.

Tamara Richie, 50, was arrested the morning of Oct. 25 by Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger and charged with first-degree murder.

Richie is accused of shooting her husband, David Richie, in the head with semiautomatic handgun while he slept.

Folger said the shooting allegedly occurred Oct. 22, the Monday before Tamara Richie's arrest. A family member called the sheriff Oct. 25 to report that Tamara Richie had shot her husband and the body was at the couple's home.

Folger and a deputy responded to 792 New Road, where they found David Richie's body.

"He had been shot in the head while in his bed," he said. "I believe he was asleep."

Lincoln County Coroner Farris Marcum said he pronounced David Richie dead at the scene at about 8:45 a.m.

The sheriff and deputy then located Tamara Richie at a family member's house and arrested her without incident.

"The investigation is still going on, but she (Tamara

McKinney Elementary students in Mechele Watkins fourth-grade science class were treated Tuesday morning to tasty lesson in food creation and agricultural science. The students each made their own serving of vanilla ice cream, with guidance from Department of Agriculture employee Matthew Hayes. Four-legged companion would change a lot for Stanford 12-year-old

STANFORD — A Lincoln County mother is hoping to raise $13,000 so her autistic son can have a specially trained K-9 guardian that could help save his life and make things easier for his caregivers.

Twelve-year-old Nelson Martin enjoys Hot Wheels cars and taking trips to hotels, but his multiple medical conditions — including autism, epilepsy and encephalopathy — mean he will always need someone to care for him.

Nelson, a Stanford resident who attends special education classes at McGuffey Sixth Grade Center, has to deal with a lack of depth perception, balance problems and low motor skills on a daily basis, said Donna Martin, Nelson's mother.

Nelson also suffers from seizures. One of the medications he's on to help prevent them comes with side effects that exacerbate his autistic problems by making him easily irritable.

IJ OPINION

Local elections more relevant than others

So much of today's headline news concerns the federal elections — not only the presidential race, but also the contests for Senate and House seats. And of course those are important.

In some ways, however, the races at the lower end of the ballot — your local elections — are even more critical, as they will have an immediate impact on life in your community. The local school board race is a case in point.

For too many years, school boards have paid more attention to form than to function, spending most of their time on facilities and HR policies, with not much left over for schooling's primary activity — learning. In fact, a doctoral student studying board minutes in Tennessee found that school boards are spending just 6% of their time on student achievement!

By getting up to speed on your candidates and their platforms, you can learn who sees the same challenges in our schools that you do, find out what they plan to do about it, and support them accordingly.

Because the fact is, although we do have tremendous challenges in public education, it is possible for schools to excel with the right leadership. In fact, some schools are already doing an exceptional job, boasting student proficiency rates of 40, 50, or even 60 percentage points over their peers in schools that are comparable in terms of poverty rates.

At the Education Consumers Foundation, we see these differences every day. In fact, we have published state-by-state charts that plot 3rd grade reading proficiency rates against poverty rates (see them online atwww.education-consumers.org/national.htm). While there is a recognized correlation between poverty and student achievement, one does not determine the other: There are countless examples of high-poverty schools with high proficiency rates as well as significant numbers of low-poverty schools with low levels of proficiency.

Contrary to popular belief, demography is not destiny.

We need school board members who recognize that our schools face challenges but who also understand that those challenges can be overcome—a fact that is demonstrated by many schools in every state. However, even the most informed and dedicated candidates cannot become a decision-maker without your support and your vote. Your schools will have the kind of leadership that you elect.

So take the time to learn about your school board candidates and other local office-seekers. These races may have just as much impact on your life (and those of your children) as the national races, and you can have much greater influence over them if you get involved.

Use your right to vote

Dear Editor,

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Lincoln County Farm Bureau, I urge Lincoln County citizens to exercise their right to vote on Tuesday, November 6.

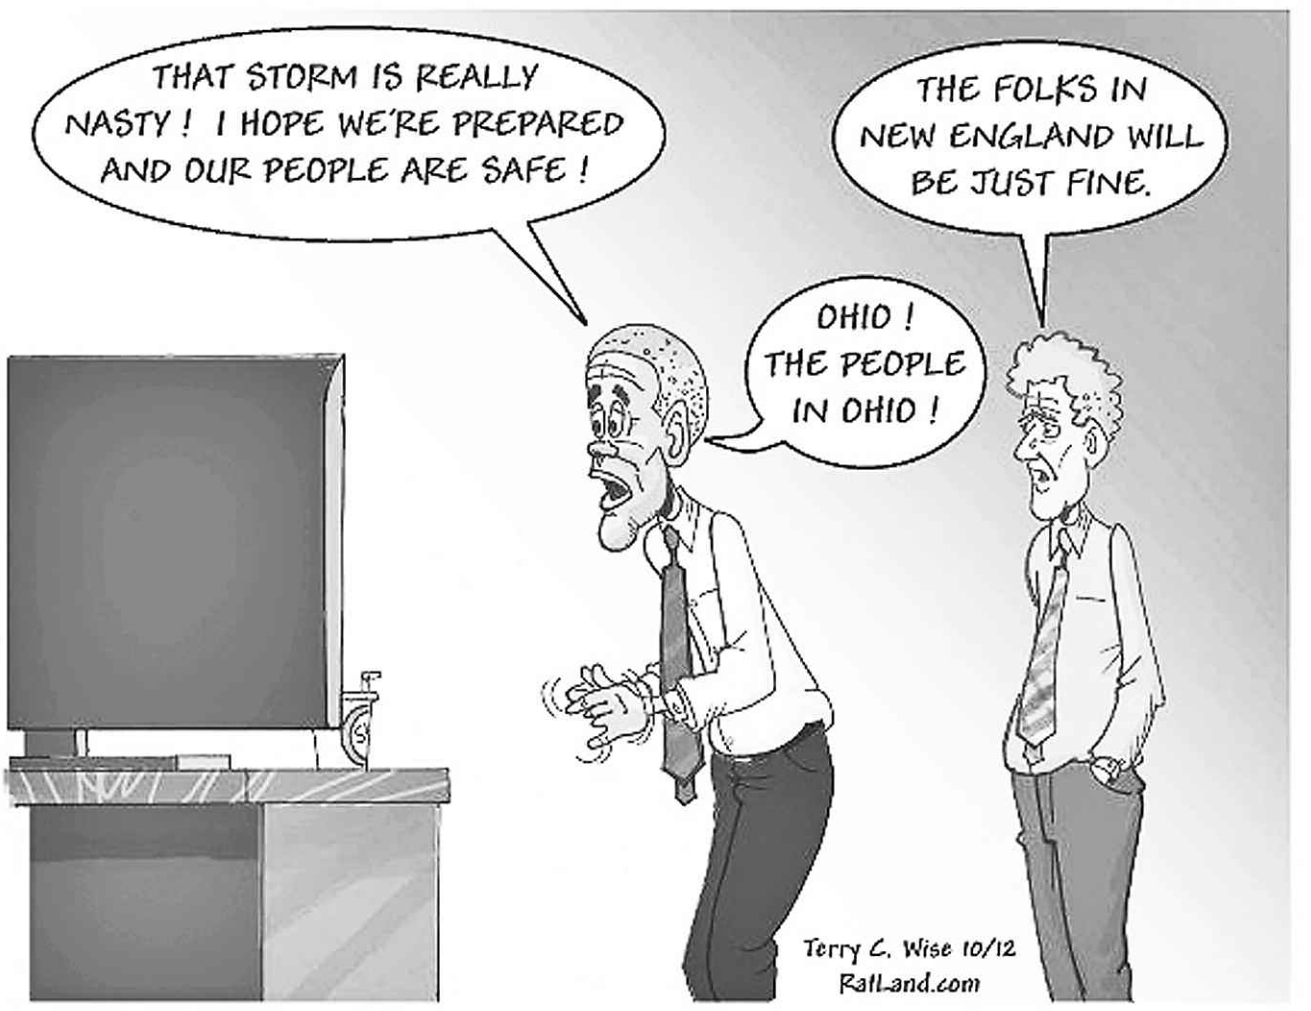

We have witnessed a great deal of uncivil and unbecoming advertising during this campaign season, but now is the time to put aside partisan differences and to vote for the future of Lincoln County, our Commonwealth and our country.

Many died to found this country and many have died defending our democracy. Let us honor their sacrifices by voting on November 6.

Photos for profit

No good solutions yet for mug shot profiteering

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Gene Policinski
Guest columnist

You can't put a price on justice — but some are trying to charge a fee to fix what others call an injustice.

There's nothing good about getting arrested, even if the charges are dismissed or you're found innocent at trial. The same goes for having a "mug shot" — a photo made at a jail or holding area — taken and filed with a county lockup or police department, complete with ID information.

In the past, those arrested usually could count on something called "practical obscurity" to keep their images and records out of sight. Given that just a tiny number of arrests are newsworthy, prompting news organizations or others to seek such photos, arrest data and mug shots would remain part of rarely accessed government files.

But now, an uncounted number of the nation's county jails post mug shots and arrest data online. For public officials, the motive often is a corrective one. One Idaho sheriff said recently the threat of a publicly displayed photo works wonders in deterring drunk drivers: "I don't know how many times I have heard from people that they got a designated driver so they don't end up on our Website," Ada County Sheriff Gary Raney told the Associated Press earlier this year.

Others praise the postings as a way to hold jail officials accountable. Not only do the mug shots offer visual evidence of an imprisonment, but they also show whether the person entered custody with any facial injuries — perhaps proof of mistreatment during the arrest.

So far, so good. But now let's consider companies that take mug shots and print or post them online in publications with names like "Checkmate" or "ArrestCentral." Is there a truck stop or convenience store that doesn't offer an update on who got thrown into the local slammer — often complete with color photo?

At least one site, Mugshots.com, cloaks itself in constitutional robing, including the First Amendment value of insuring public-records transparency and the Sixth Amendment fair-trial guarantees.

In its "frequently asked questions" the site states: "Imagine a world with no transparency, 'star chambers' and citizens who are secretly dragged into investigation [never to see] the light of day again. No one sees. No one hears. No one knows. It's hard to imagine this was all not so long ago. Russia? China? North Korea? Cuba? Or even today, Guantanamo Bay, or the CIA's 'black sites'? Greater openness and transparency are the foundation of strong government of the people."

All true. But though the postings benefit the individual and the public, who gains from taking down the photo? The individual and his or her reputation, certainly – especially when prosecution was erroneous or failed to convict. But the benefit to society of a private company or person profiting from removing information from public view is, well, nonexistent.

There's the rub: Those public-spirited companies like Mugshots.com suddenly turn self-serving in demanding from $99 to $399 to take down a photo. Critics call the practice "unfair" or "extortion." But given that the postings are done by private companies, not public officials, legal cures proposed thus far seem as bad as the ailment.

Don't make jail or booking photos available to the public? Then we lose accountability and transparency.

Outlaw commercial use of such material? But there are so many legitimate and long-time users, from real estate agencies to scholars to journalists.

Let the government define "news" to protect local news outlets but screen out tabloid arrest-profiteers? That would invite abuse and might be futile. Arrests are news — and also public records — and identifying those in custody is important to society. It's one role of an independent free press.

In 1913 Justice Louis D. Brandeis wrote: "Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants; electric light the most efficient policeman." In that spirit, perhaps posting the mug shots of those profiting in such bald fashion from public records would be the best, most First Amendment-friendly response.

But so far, ideas to stop profiteering from arrest records seem less than satisfying and fall short of a solution.

An encouraging word
A privilege and a responsibility

By Howard Coop

"This land is your land. This land is my land." Those words, written in 1940 by Woody Guthrie, are the opening words to "one of the most famous folk songs" of the United States. They imply, emphatically, that this land is our land. Every citizen can affirm that with pride.

But those words imply more, much more. Possession always involves responsibility. Therefore, since this land is our land, we, as citizens, are responsible for it. We have a precious and unique possession and that possession involves a significant privilege that may be called a serious responsibility.

In a time of great turmoil, WE THE PEOPLE of the thirteen original colonies acted uniquely and decisively to deal with a serious situation they faced. "In order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty" for themselves and those of us who are their posterity, they did "ordain and establish the Constitution of the United States of America." That constitution, ratified on June 21, 1788, established, as Abraham Lincoln said on November 19, 1863 in his famous address at Gettysburg, a government "of the people, by the people, for the people." Therefore, government officials are elected by the vote of the citizens, and they serve at the will of the citizens. Those officials are accountable to the citizens and may be re-elected or removed from office by the vote of the citizens. The will of the people, expressed by vote, is supreme.

On November 6, citizens of this land will, with their vote, choose officials of government. They must look carefully at the record and the stance of candidates and vote for the candidates who will be loyal to the purposes of government set forth in the Constitution. This is a great privilege, but it is also a demanding responsibility upon which the future of the nation depends.

In Loving Memory of Delbert Hawkins, Sr.

November 2, 1919 – August 29, 2012

Written by: Laura Rose

I must share one of the most "right" experiences our family has ever experienced together. On Saturday morning we went up to Crab Orchard, Kentucky, to join with family and friends at Watts Chapel Baptist Church to honor the life of Damon's Great-Uncle Delbert Hawkins. We gathered in this simple, yet beautiful, building that Uncle Delbert had himself helped to build and provide for his church family.

Uncle Delbert had built his business and raised his family in the very center of this beautiful Appalachian community for his ninety-two years. His very life had been built on simple, unapologetic integrity, respect, and generosity. He had devotedly taught Sunday School in this little church for over fifty years. Though having obtained only a formal eighth grade education, he had trained many future pastors within those walls. His intelligence, discipline, and wit were well known.

On the front row sat his lovely bride of seventy-two years, the only girl he ever loved, and the one he had faithfully cherished all those years. Row after row was filled with adoring children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, knowing that Delbert Hawkins earnestly served and prayed for him or her individually. (They knew this because he had gathered each one to him to seek assurance of their faith as his time grew short.)

His pastor of a quarter-century honored him, followed by his own grandson who is now a fine pastor in his own right. His daughter gave a heartfelt tribute, echoed by her sister saying so much by rising and stating, "This is my Daddy." The service drew to a close with a poignant, impromptu moment as another grandson stood and with a voice barely above a whisper, yet audible to all.....declared his love and devotion to his grandmother. Two simple hymns tied together this gift in a fitting, simple bow. No elaborate service was needed.....the service had been going on for ninety-two years.

There was no seminar that we could have paid to take our children to, no famous speaker, and no elite school that would have provided lessons on how to live more than that funeral did.

That's it. That is what we need. Forget the ridiculous political conventions, the promises, the rhetoric. We need to see it done, the right way, in every American community. On both sides of the political aisle, we are desperate to witness unwavering choices to invest in future generations through sacrifice and a looking beyond oneself, with conviction that every person, every occupation, every community, every choice MATTERS. Then, and only then, will America return to its greatness. Delbert Hawkins did more for this country than almost any politician, statesman, or celebrity. His influence will never be fully traced. And thankfully, though rare, there are more like him. Let's uphold them, and purpose ourselves to BE them.

Garden Club members enjoy learning session

By Leoni Mundelius

The Green Thumbs Garden Club attended the flower arrangement from your yard at Joanna Kirby's farm. Joyce Martin, Wanda Napier, Donna Vonlinger, Jamie Mingo and Barbara Walls attended this learning session. They have observed the creation of various arrangements using flowers from the garden, interesting grass by the side road, dried okra, to common sticks that wood complete the art. It's amazing how using a bucket, pitcher or even a cushaw squash can be used as a container for your fall arrangement that you can find from your garden and around the yard.

This has been a learning experience especially to some of us that enjoy having flower arrangements, but trying to conserve and still be able to do so by looking closer to home.

If you are interested in being a part of this garden club, call (606) 365-7715.

Christmas plays are beginning kiddies - if you are age 6-10, practices will be Sunday at 5 p.m. If you are a Rainbow, kiddies up to 6, you will practice on Wednesday during your class time.

Christmas blessings is asking for new toys. You can put your new toy donations in the giant box in the back of the church. These toys bless so many families during the Holidays. The team is also asking for wrapped candy. You may give your candy donation to a Christmas Blessings team member.

If you know of anyone who needs to be visited, especially during the holiday season, please put their name in the designated bag in the back of the church.

Continue in prayer for those who are sick, the lost in our community, our church, leadership, and service men/women. Don't forget to pray for Israel.

Think about this: " As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the LORD is tried: he is a buckler to all them that trust in him." 2 Samuel 22:31. It is His perfect will that we should strive to live in daily. His word is tested and God cannot lie. He will do what He says He will do, we simply must trust His plan.

Kings Mountain news

By Violet Bell/Beverly Murphy

Evelyn Terry and her brother William Jenkins, Jr. traveled to West Chester, Ohio last Thursday to visit with their sister, Ethylene Johnson. They spent the night and most of the day Friday with her. Janet and Brenda, Ethylene's daughters were able to join in the visit as well. Ethylene has not been feeling well and our hope and prayers are for her regain her strength and good health. She is so important to so many people.

The Pleasant Point Baptist Church held its annual Halloween/Fall Festival this past Sunday night in the fellowship hall. A large crowd of over 50 people attended and enjoyed a tasty soup and sandwich meal. There were lots of games to play for the younger generation as well. A great time was had by all.

Deanna Floyd was chaperon for her granddaughter, Emmy's preschool trip to the Pumpkin Patch located in Casey County last week. They shared a full day of fun together and later returned to Lincoln County and enjoyed a picnic at the Hustonville Park.

We are happy to hear that Jalen Smith is still regaining his strength and health at home.

I was happy to have Rolla and Sandi Hendrickson as my guests last Thursday and Friday. Rolla is the son of the late Bascom and Christine Sears Hendrickson. Rolla and Sandi live in Lake Park, Ga. and I always enjoy their visits.

We were so sorry to hear about the death of Judy Johnson. Judy and her husband Garland were long time residents of the Kings Mountain area. Judy worked in the Kings Mountain Post Office at one time. I knew Judy from the time I was a freshman at Memorial High School. She was with me in the Future Homemakers of America Club and always encouraged me and treated me as her equal. When I returned to Kings Mountain, she again encouraged me to apply for the job as Guidance Secretary at Lincoln County High School. Without her pep talk, I would not have applied, been hired and met and worked with some wonderful people and Lincoln County High School students. I will miss her as so many other people will. Our condolences go out to the Johnson family.

Fairview Baptist Church news

By Shelby Lakes

Sunday was the first day of our fall revival at Fairview. Bro. Lester Tirey was the guest. He said preachers should be motivators, not manipulators, and that he had come to preach God's word. If you come because God asked, you will receive something that will last an eternity, he said.

Bro. Tirey's message was from the book of Jonah, and was titled, "Time to Look Again." This title comes from Jonah 2; 4: "Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again toward thy holy temple."

In the book of Jonah, God sent Jonah to preach in Nineveh. Jonah did not want to do this, and instead, tried to resist the will of God by going onto a ship. "There is no where you can go to flee the presence of the Lord," Bro. Tirey said.

While Jonah was in the ship, the sea became very rough in a storm, and the crew found the storm was occurring because Jonah was resisting the will of God. Jonah suggested they throw him into the sea, which they did.

God had prepared a big fish to swallow Jonah, and Jonah stayed in the fish's stomach for thee days and nights. Jonah prayed, saying that he would do God's will. The fish vomited Jonah out onto dry land. Jonah preached in Nineveh, and there was a great revival there; the city was spared.

Bro. Tirey said God's message to Jonah was divine (from God), directional (he told Jonah to go to Nineveh), and defined (God told Jonah what to do there).

Jonah did not like the Ninevites, Bro. Tirey said, because they were the enemies of Israel. So Jonah lacked compassion for them, and obedience to God.

"We have lost the fear of disobedience," Bro. Tirey said. You may be out of God's will, he added, but he still loves you, as he loved Jonah. He wanted to use Jonah to bring joy to his life. (End of sermon summary)

Celebrating birthdays were Roy Mullins, Chris Singleton, Raymond Brenda, Valerie Gaylord and Wayne Silverthorn. Celebrating anniversaries were Fonzo and Emma McGuffey, and Bryan and Jennifer Gover.

109 attended Sunday school; 187 were present for the worship service.

News from Highland Methodist

Sunday, Oct. 28, was a cold, damp day, but services at the Highland United Methodist Church were filled with surprises and inspiration.

During Sunday school, birthday persons were Doris Scilley and Jamie McGuffey.

The surprises began during Sunday school and continued as people gathered for the worship service.

Everyone was greeted by Dawn Cheetham as she handed each person a pumpkin seed with an image of a cross on each side.

She had prepared a pumpkin which had a cross image carved into its surface. She placed it up front and then lit a candle inside which illuminated the cut-out cross section. She had also prepared a writing comparing pumpkins to people. This was read during church preliminaries.

Some of those thoughts were: Like people, pumpkins come in all sizes: short, tall, round, slender, etc. Like people, some pumpkins have flaws; such as, bumps, scars, dirt, etc. Some are smooth. Some are rough. Like people, when filled with sin, pumpkins are slimy and yucky on the inside. But like people, who become Christians, when the slime and yuck have been removed, the pumpkin becomes clean and smooth inside and can let a light shine through.

She noticed that the seeds were in the form of a drop of blood. She cleaned these and painted a cross image on each side. We were encouraged to carry the seed with us, and plant good seeds of faith, love and share the gospel throughout our days.

Dawn and her husband, Scot, also provided pumpkins for children's church for the children to decorate in a religious motif and take home.

This sharing was greatly inspirational and appreciated by all.

Prayer requests were for DeLisa Courtney, the New and Richie families and Jay Caplin (Tennessee).

The choir sang, "In the Morning Light", and the lead singer was Dawn Cheetham.

Scripture, John 19:28, was read by Peter Langford. Thirsting after righteousness was the emphasis. Jesus came to forgive our sins and produce righteousness. It was His driving force and must be ours as well.

Carl and Jo Ann Elliott were proud to have their grandson, Reiker, and his parents, Jodie and Alice, in attendance.

Kenneth Sims and his fiancee were back in attendance. Kenneth was asked to come forward and share information about their upcoming wedding in January.

Don't forget that the time changes this Sunday. Set your clocks back an hour.

The choir will have choir practice this Friday, Nov. 2, at 6:30 p.m. This is due to so many other activities this week. Some and join us as we practice for our Christmas presentation. We have a great time preparing to share God's message. We will be practicing each Sunday after services, too.

Special and unique blessings can be found at the Highland United Methodist Church each Sunday at 10 and 11 a.m. Feel free to come, celebrate, and receive God's gifts.

News from Ottenheim

by Dorothea Schlappi

So sorry I haven't had news in lately, will try to catch up.

We want to express our regrets to Jamie and Kyle Oaks who lost their home and contents a couple weeks ago by fire.

Congratulations to Ashly Smith and Kevin Marks who were married on Oct. 13, 2012, in the historical Lutheran Church here in Ottenheim. A reception was held afterward in the community building. May they be blessed with a very long happy life.

We wish to say hello to baby Jemma G. D. Kocher who was born on Aug. 21, 2012, to Erin Henderson and James Kocher. Congratulations!

Thanks to all who attended the chili supper and auction at St. Sylvester for the church repair fund.

We are glad to have Rev. Peter Joseph back after a six-week stay in India at his family's home.

A household shower was held at the community building in honor of Kimberly Jones and Joe Bratcher, who are to be married soon. Everyone enjoyed the time spent with them and friends.

There are so many in the area who are sick and have been in the hospital. Our prayers go out to them all and hope everyone will be up and out soon.

The late Alfred and Lillian Zwahlen's farm and home now has new owners, who are Mary and Jim May of Ottenheim.

The Virginia Doss farm and home went up for auction and it has several new owners.

The Robert Begley trailer and land sold and new neighbors have moved in. Welcome!

The house that was the old Albert Stempfly place as it was known, has been sold also.

There have been so many of the older places here in Ottenheim sold due to the passing or moving of the owners. It's sad but glad to see there is someone else caring for these places.

Halloween is over so now it's full steam ahead for Christmas. The stores have already had things out for a month. Thanksgiving seems to get passed over. It used to be the time families gathered to enjoy and give thanks for the past, but it doesn't seem to be as important as it once was.

The storms that arrived this week along the eastern sea coast have been terrible for a lot of people. We pray for everyone who had to go through this, now we know winter is soon on the way.

Walnut prices have stayed good at thirteen dollars a hundred, even though a lot of the trees don't have many on them. It's a back breaking job picking walnuts up, but they also taste so good later.

Seems this is the season for people to get rid of their cat families. There have been a lot of animals dropped in this area. It's cruel to drop an animal because they have been loved and then shoved aside to fend for themselves. There are places to take animals no longer wanted. Other people have their own pets and when someone drops three or four more it puts a strain on the places they are dropped at. Please place your discarded animals where you know someone wants them and will care for them. The cold is hard enough on these stray animals.

Hunting season is here, coon dogs also roam, it would be appropriate to ask the owners for permission to hunt. Sometimes damage is done to owner's land and fences by those who don't seem to care whose land it is. If hunting on someone else's land, treat it as your own, it's not like it used to be. Owners didn't mind anyone hunting, but cattle roam and could be damaged even by running dogs. Please respect others wishes. Thanks! Lots of farmers are posting their land and that means KEEP OUT!

All we can say about life is enjoy it while we can. God bless!

New Covenant Church news

By Bethany Rowland

The services at New Covenant on Sunday, Oct. 28, were greatly filled with the presence of God, and exceptionally special because we had our first services in our new location! For all who would like to join us, the new location is in the old Curves building, next to where Food Lion used to be. Please come and be with us! God is doing amazing things!

Pastor, Bro. Joel Rowland, gave a wonderful sermon on "The love of Jesus", reading text from John 15:13 "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Rom. 5:6-11 "...For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly....". In the text from John, Jesus was saying "I am about to show you the greatest love possible." He was about to lay down His life for all of His friends. And this may shock you but, as said in Matt. 11:19 Jesus was "...a friend of publicans and sinners". Our text doesn't say "Once we were saved and trying to live a perfect life and serving Him every day, Christ died." No, it says "While we were yet sinners." When we were at our lowest point, in the midst of our greatest sin, Christ gave His life because He loves us.

With every crack of the whip, every bruise, every drop of blood, every hurtful word, Jesus whispered "I love you." He knew Judas had betrayed Him, knew that Judas sent Him to His suffering, He still whispered "I love you." Many times the Roman solders would beat people so badly that they would die before ever leaving the whipping post, but Jesus could not die. And with every stripe from the cat of nine tails, every piece of flesh that was torn from His body, Jesus whispered, "I forgive you, I love you....I'm doing this just for you." Jesus prayed in the garden "O my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me..."(Matt. 26:39). He didn't want to face what was about to happen. He didn't want to feel the pain. But, because of His love for us, His prayer continued "..nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt."

As Jesus bore the harsh words, the beating, the crown of thorns, the shame and scorn, the pain of dragging His cross up the hill and falling under it's burden, of being nailed to the cross, pierced in the side, He had YOU on His mind. Whispering, I know what you've done and it's okay, I'm doing this so that it will be okay, because I love you. This hurts so much, but I love you, so I will bear it. I don't want to be here, but I love you, so I will endure just a little longer. And as our glorious saviour drew in His last breath, hear Him whisper your name and say "I love you."

To hear this wonderful message and many others visit our website at Newcovenantholiness.webs.com.

Join us Sunday mornings at 11 a.m., Sunday evenings at 6 p.m. and Wednesday at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome for praise and worship services and for our Trinitarian outreach programs. You can find all outreach programs and other upcoming events on our website along with many links and Bible studies.

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Scena Ann Petrey

Services for Sunday, Oct. 28 opened with the singing of "I'm a Part of the Family". What a wonderful feeling to be a part of our blood family, but to know we also have an extended family through Jesus Christ. Pleasant View has a real talent to make everyone feel like a family with all the support, prayers and comfort of a family. If you are not committed to another church, we invite you to come to Pleasant View.

Stacy Story sang a special on Sunday. "When we seek the presence, we find comfort and peace" were words in the song.

Bro. Kyle took his morning message from 1 Cor. 15:29. He began by saying that Adam led us into sin, but the good news is that Christ led us out.

There were three points to his message on "Baptized for the Dead?". The first point is that we are saved by grace through faith. Grace is receiving something we don't deserve. Salvation is completely by God's grace. God's grace does not depend on us.

The second point is we are saved for service, not saved to sit. Our life is meant to be a "thank you" for what Christ did for us. We are to serve others. All we have to do is decide how we will use the time that has been given to us!

The third point is we are baptized to show we are unified in Christ and to be ready to serve our King! Step into a role and be a servant. Take the place of those who have gone on to keep the Kingdom alive.

Every new Christian is baptized for a calling and service. We are to take the place of saints who have passed on. We should not underestimate what God is doing in and through the church. The church's service changes eternity for someone else.

Bro. Kyle concluded his message with a very thought provoking question - "What has God called you to do?"

Sunday evening the family fest was a huge success. Many children enjoyed the games and various other creative things the church provided for them at the shelter.

Our church extends sympathy and prayers to the family of Judy Johnson who lost her fight with cancer last week. Her son, Mack and grandsons attend church at Pleasant View, along with her cousins Joyce Simpson and Paul Hall.

We also extend sympathy and prayers to the family of Thelma Rogers who passed away in Cincinnati on Saturday. Her brother, Willie Petrey, and niece and nephew, Kathy Peek and Brad Petrey, attend our church. Hobert Denny and Peggy Denny are cousins.

The secretaries have requested that all information for the bulletin be turned in to the office by Wednesday of each week.

There will be a ladies brunch on Nov. 3 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall. There will be more details later.

In preparation for our fall Operation Inasmuch, several will be cutting firewood on Nov. 3 at 8 a.m. at Ted Crunkleton's house. Smoked barbecue will be served for lunch. For more information, call Josh Jacobs at (606) 669-1279.

Pleasant View will conduct classes for discipleship ministry that will refresh the body and renew the mind. These will start on Jan. 6 at 6:30 p.m. and deal with different subjects. We have until the first of December to sign up for the one of our choice.

Collection week for our Christmas shoe boxes will be Nov. 12-19. Our church will have a special Thanksgiving service when our shoe boxes will be placed on the altar for prayer on Sunday evening, Nov. 18.

The children's Christmas program practice has begun. We practice each Sunday afternoon from 4:30 to 6 p.m. The program this year is "the Christmas Shoe Tree".

Ladies: Please join us as we come together for a time of fun and fellowship. Saturday, Nov. 3 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., we will have a brunch in the fellowship hall of the church. We will discuss new ideas within the Women's Ministry. Door prizes will be given. You can call Judy Jacobs at (606) 669-2044, Mary Ann May at (606) 669-4611 or Miranda Brown at (606) 278-0364 for more information.

The WMU will be hosting a countywide "Baptist World Day of Prayer" at 6:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall on Monday, Nov. 5. Please bring a salad for supper if you plan to attend. The meeting will follow directly after the meal. Men, women and children are invited.

Thought for the week: "To get nations back on their feet, we must first get down on our knees." (Billy Graham).

We promise to take excellent care of your baby.

Here, let's shake on it.

"I cannot say thank you enough for making our birth experience so wonderful."

News from Stanford Church of the Nazarene

By Buford Edwards II

Sunday morning, Stanford Church of the Nazarene was blessed by the wonderful worship service as we gathered and raised our voices to praise the Lord and learn from His Word! Bro. Buford challenged us as he brought the message from Ephesians 4, titled "Walking Worthy of our Calling." We gathered back again on Sunday night for "Open Mic Night," and Bro. Buford brought the message from Exodus 32 on the topic, "The Golden Calves in the Church."

Come out Wednesday night for Christian Education Night. The kids meet weekly and our adult class dubbed, "THE BOOK" club is currently working through the book of Revelation.

This week we continue our study of Revelation 20. Join us for Bible study as we discuss "The end of Satan" as well as the verse of the week: Rev. 20:1-3 (KJV): And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand. And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years, And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

Thought for the week: Satan is at work today, but his end will come.

The Jail Ministry meets every Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and the Nursing Home Ministry the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. For more information, or to learn how to get involved, contact the church and leave a message.

Beginning next Wednesday, we will be having Christmas play practice. Anyone interested in being in this year's production, let Sister Michelle or Brother Buford know!

This Saturday, the ladies are planning a shopping trip to Richmond and the men will be going out to Bro. Bowen's farm to "get rid" of some old ammunition. Both groups will be meeting at the church at 10 a.m. If you are interested in going, be there by 10 a.m. sharp!

On Wednesday, Nov. 28, we will be trying something new! Instead of our regular Bible study we will be meeting at the fellowship hall for a "Chili Night." We are opening this up to the entire community as a chance to come eat and receive an encouraging word from Scripture. Hopefully, we will be able to do this once a month. So, make a pot of chili and invite everyone you know to come out and join us!

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Tuesday, Dec. 4.

The Men's Group meets every other month on the second Monday of the month. The next meeting is Monday, Dec. 10 at 7 p.m.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

Service times: Sunday school starts at 10 a.m., Sunday morning worship begins at 11 a.m., Sunday evening services at 6 p.m., and Christian Education Night is every Wednesday beginning at 7 p.m.

For more information about our youth group and children's programs, email the directors by logging on to our website at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don't forget to also "like" the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

Crab Orchard water line replacement under way

An approximately $2.6 million project replacing nearly 12 miles of water lines between Crab Orchard and Lancaster began about four weeks ago. Crews are upgrading the existing line, which is more than 40 years old. A Community Development Block Grant has made the replacement possible. The project is expected to take another five months to complete. At left, Allen Perkins uses an excavator to lift a length of water pipe into place Oct. 22 a few miles north of Crab Orchard. Assisting on the ground is Lee Pergrem.

Fiscal Court goes back to drawing board with wellness center plan

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — A plan to build a wellness center addition onto the Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center has been scrapped in favor of constructing a stand-alone structure in Veterans Park instead.

Lincoln County magistrates learned Tuesday morning from architect Garlan Vanhook that the original plan to add on to the senior citizens center would cost about $392,000 — more than $100,000 beyond the $285,000 the county has available from a years-old wellness grant.

Weak soil near the lake in front of the center means building an addition would require concrete anchors that reach down to rock deep below the surface — an expensive upgrade that put the project beyond the county's means, Vanhook said.

Based on recommendations from Vanhook and Judge-Executive Jim Adams, magistrates voted to reject all bids for the addition and send Vanhook back to the drawing board to come up with a plan for a free-standing building that could be erected in First Southern National Bank Veterans Park.

Vanhook said there are many options for what could be done with a structure in the proposed location, which would be near a barn and gravel parking lot by the soccer fields and park office.

The building could act as a wellness center, similar to what was planned for the senior citizens center. It could also provide a gym-like area for the community, Vanhook said.

The funding for whatever the wellness structure eventually becomes comes from a line-item grant that Rep. Ben Chandler landed for the county to use for wellness, Adams said.

Former Judge-Executive Buckwheat Gilbert had wanted to construct a multi-purpose center for wellness and veterans with the grant money, but the idea he proposed had a price tag of about $1.4 million, well beyond what the county received, Adams said.

Adams said the county has had the grant money available for four years and he's concerned if the county doesn't use it for something soon, someone in Frankfort may push to have it taken away.

"It's laid there for several years and we need to go ahead and turn that back in or use it," he said.

Vanhook said he expects to be back before the fiscal court in the spring with new plans for the standalone building, ready to bid the project out.

Adams said a metal structure is a likely option, especially since the county has paid to construct several other metal structures recently, so it will already have an idea of what $285,000 can buy.

In other business, the fiscal court:

• approved accepting $125,000 in state road funds to pave Harmons Lick Road north of Crab Orchard;

• voted to draft a three-year contract for Tim Siler, making him the county-wide electrical inspector and instituting fees of $60 per visit and $30 per call-back; and

• approved changing the name of a road north of Hustonville, West Huston Pointe, to Carl Russell Street.

Man wanted in Pulaski and Lincoln captured after pursuit

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

KINGS MOUNTAIN — A Waynesburg man wanted in Pulaski and Lincoln counties was arrested by a Lincoln deputy after a cat-and-mouse pursuit Oct. 23.

Christopher T. Stull, born Sept. 13, 1991, was lodged in the Lincoln County Regional Jail and charged with first-degree fleeing and evading and marijuana possession, Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said.

Stull already had a lengthy list of charges he was wanted for, including Pulaski charges of first-degree fleeing and evading and wanton endangerment of a police officer, among others, Folger said.

Stull was wanted in Lincoln County for third-degree criminal mischief, contempt of court and other charges.

"We knew that he was wanted," Folger said. "We'd been trying to catch this subject for a while."

Folger said a Constable Delbert Mitchell spotted Stull Tuesday at a residence along Ky. 328. When Stull saw that Mitchell had spotted him, he took off running into the woods.

Folger said a search for Stull was initiated. Deputy Johnny Williams found Stull, who was hiding and observing other law enforcement officers searching for him. As Williams approached, Stull noticed him and began running away again, Folger said.

"Deputy Williams ran after the subject and caught him down on Cemetery Road, where he took him into custody and placed him under arrest," Folger said.

Hopkins
for
Circuit Court Clerk

Hello everyone my name is Dwight Hopkins candidate for Circuit Court Clerk. I have been married to my lovely wife Kimberly for 18 years. We have one daughter, Marlie Frances Hopkins (aged 1). Kimberly is a substitute teacher here in the county.

Voters want to KNOW that the person they turn the reins of this office over to is well qualified. I graduated from Eastern Kentucky University with a four year degree in Economics. At EKU I also completed numerous accounting classes. I successfully completed the extremely rigorous Circuit Court Clerk qualifying examination where I scored 83% (minimum score of 70% required).

If elected I will use my economics training everyday to better utilize taxpayer resources to run an efficient Circuit Court Clerk office while being vigilant against waste and abuse of YOUR taxpayer dollars. An economics degree will enable me to run the office like a business. I pledge to always allocate taxpayer resources in a responsible way. Additionally, my accounting background will enable me to properly safeguard and report the significant amounts of money dealt with in this office including fees, court fines imposed and collected, bail bond postings and so on.

Just as importantly I pledge to ensure that every person coming into the office will be treated respectfully and promptly.

As a veteran I faithfully and honorably served the people to the best of my ability. As your next Circuit Court Clerk I will do the same. Please join me and my family on November 6 with your vote and support.

NELSON

From A1

"An average day is very stressful — not just for him, but for us and whoever's around," Martin said.

Sometimes, Nelson has periods of about 20 minutes when he's content to watch TV or play with his Hot Wheels, but many other times, he is restless and discontent, prone to flapping his hands around and repeating phrases loudly.

"In some ways, he's an 18-month-old; in some ways, he's a 2-year-old," Martin said. "I'll always care for him."

Despite all his issues, Martin said her son is blessed in a way many others with similar conditions aren't — he doesn't deal with debilitating depression or frustration about his conditions because he doesn't fully comprehend all his limitations.

"He's loving. He's very, very happy," she said.

Thanks to a Medicaid waiver program, Martin is able to stay home and care for her son whenever he's not at school, but Nelson needs near-constant attention and things are getting more complicated as he gets older and taller.

But one thing that has the potential to make life easier for Nelson and his family is the addition of a specially-trained, four-legged friend to their household.

After researching service dogs for people with conditions similar to Nelson's, Martin discovered the non-profit organization 4 Paws for Ability, which works to meet the needs of children suffering from seizures by providing them with dog companions.

Dogs trained by 4 Paws are able to detect when their companion child is having a seizure and seek out and alert adults to the problem. Such a watchful companion could mean the difference between life and death for Nelson, since he is prone to seizures while he sleeps, Martin said.

Seizure alert dogs trained by 4 Paws often have the ability to alert on a seizure before outward physical signs are visible to humans, according to a press release from the company.

The dog would also be able to interrupt Nelson's repetitive behaviors and hand-flapping, allowing for a substantially more peaceful home situation.

And if Nelson wandered off, his dog would be trained to alert nearby adults and then pursue Nelson and stay with him wherever he goes, Martin said.

"It would be like his own search and rescue dog," she said.

4 Paws, an Ohio-based organization, estimates it places about 100 service dogs with children in need every year. Dogs trained by the organization help their owners with hearing disabilities, seizures, autism, mobility issues and diabetes.

Martin said a dog from 4 Paws would be "life-changing" for Nelson, herself and others who care for him, like her fiancé, Brian Aldridge.

Currently, even everyday activities most people take for granted like grocery shopping or going out to eat are huge tasks with Nelson involved. But with a companion animal helping ensure Nelson's safety and reduce his stress and unwanted behaviors, those activities become much more doable, Martin said.

Such a skilled dog does not come cheap — it will cost 4 Paws an estimated $22,000 to train a companion for Nelson.

Martin said Nelson's family and friends need to raise $13,000 of that in order to make the service animal a reality.

To that end, McGuffey Sixth Grade Center and Stanford Elementary have both initiated efforts to raise money for Nelson. There are also T-shirts available for sale, the proceeds from which — close to $2.50 per shirt — go toward paying for Nelson's companion animal.

And a fundraising event is scheduled for 11 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday at L&N Depot in downtown Stanford. The event includes a bake sale, chili supper, karaoke, vendors and a silent auction.

Martin said if the fundraising to get Nelson his dog is successful, she would like to organize a similar effort every year for other children in the Stanford community with similar needs.

"This is life-changing for children," she said.

SO YOU KNOW

A special fundraising event is scheduled for 11 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday at the L&N Depot in downtown Stanford. Proceeds from the event, which includes a bake sale, chili supper, karaoke, vendors and a silent auction, will go toward the $13,000 in donations needed by the non-profit organization 4 Paws for Ability to train a service dog for Stanford 12-year-old Nelson Martin.

If you'd like to find out more, purchase a T-shirt in support of Nelson or make a donation, call Donna Martin at (606) 669-9213 or email her at donna-martin7467@att.net. Police were notified of a possible child abuse case after Gosser brought her daughter to Fort Logan Hospital after the alleged assault.

Vinyard was arrested a week later on Aug. 24. According to an arrest citation, Vinyard confessed to shaking the infant.

The infant was transferred to Lexington for treatment of hemorrhages and broken ribs. She was released into the care of family members in late September.

State police have said it may take years to determine the extent of any permanent injuries suffered by the infant like brain damage or learning disabilities.

Vinyard is currently being held without bond in the Lincoln County Regional Jail.

Red Cross names Lincoln 'most disaster-ready' in eight counties

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County has been designated the "most disaster-ready" county in an eight-county region by the Daniel Boone chapter of the American Red Cross.

Lincoln Emergency Management Director Don Gilliam was also awarded a "dive right in" award for his work serving as a Daniel Boone Red Cross board member.

The award and designation came during a recent volunteer and staff recognition event held by the Red Cross. Gilliam was publicly thanked by Judge-Executive Jim Adams and Lincoln County magistrates Tuesday morning.

"As a board member, (Gilliam) educated elected officials, met with local business leaders, recruited other board members and increased awareness of the Red Cross in Lincoln County," the announcement of Gilliam's award reads. "As a disaster volunteer, Don located and facilitated Red Cross shelter agreements and recruited disaster volunteers — making Lincoln County the most 'disaster ready' county in the chapter."

The Red Cross recognition is the second award recently received by Gilliam for his work as Lincoln's emergency management director. Earlier this year, the Kentucky Emergency Management Association named Lincoln County's emergency management program the "most improved" in the state.

Magistrate Johnnie Padgett said he thinks Adams move to make Gilliam director a little more than a year and a half ago is "one of the best decisions he's ever made."

"I wish everything we did in this county was as good as what he (Gilliam) is doing," Padgett said.

Gilliam said he sees the "most disaster-ready" designation as more of a recognition that Lincoln County's emergency preparedness is improving, not that it's already where it needs to be.

During his time as emergency management director, Lincoln has added to its number of emergency shelters, something the Red Cross likely took into consideration with its recognition, Gilliam said.

During a recent disaster training event, a scenario was used where Garrard County had to send evacuees to Lincoln County. Lincoln was able to accept up to 3,000 evacuees in the staged situation — a large number when many other counties are considered in good shape if they can accept a few hundred evacuees, Gilliam said.

Gilliam said historically, Lincoln County has been "at or near the bottom as far as donations" to the local Daniel Boone Red Cross chapter, while it also accepts the second-most money in Red Cross assistance.

That trend has slowly been reversing recently, and Gilliam said he would like to see that ratio flip completely.

"The good citizens and businesses of this county have been good about giving, but we've got a lot more to do," he said.

ELIGIBILITY

dates the calls were in reference to. He said his office is not responsible for verifying that candidates meet eligibility requirements.

"It's our job when the papers are in to make sure they are signed," he said.

If someone wants to challenge the eligibility of a candidate, they must be eligible to vote for the candidate or a challenger for the same elected position, according to state law.

A person who wants to challenge a candidate's eligibility must bring their case before the county circuit court for summary proceedings.

There are different residency requirements for the various local seats up for grabs this election:

• Candidates for circuit court clerk and magistrate must be Kentucky residents for at least two years and residents of the county (and precinct for magistrates) where they are running for at least one year.

• Candidates for mayor, city council member and city commissioner must have lived in the city where they are running for at least one year.

• Candidates for school board positions must be Kentucky residents for at least three years and a registered voter in the district they are running to represent.

Spoonamore said the state defines a candidate's residency as "where you lay your head at night" and not necessarily by property owned by a candidate.

If a judge rules a candidate ineligible, he or she can be prevented from being elected, or removed from office if already elected, Spoonamore said.

VACATION

working without using many vacation hours.

The danger of such a large pile of owed vacation is that if multiple deputies leave around the same time, the county will be on the hook to pay off the unused hours.

"The liability is not imminent, but it's there," Judge-Executive Jim Adams said Oct. 24 during a meeting between Lincoln County Fiscal Court and members of the sheriff's department.

Former deputy Jeremy Garrison is a case study in what can happen if deputies leave with large amounts of unpaid vacation.

When Garrison left his position in September for a job with Stanford police, he had 441 hours — about 11 weeks — of vacation time he had never been paid for.

Lincoln County Judge-Executive Jim Adams said the county initially paid Garrison for 12 days of vacation time — the maximum amount employees in other county departments are supposed to be allowed to carry over from year to year.

But after consulting with the Kentucky Association of Counties about legalities and discovering a road department employee who was paid for 30 hours of unused vacation time, Adams recommended county magistrates approve payment of Garrison's remaining 345 hours.

"There has been a precedent set that someone has been paid more than the 12 days," Adams said. "He has a good case if he wants to … take it to small claims court."

Magistrates unanimously approved payment of $4,923.15 to Garrison out of Sheriff Curt Folger's budget.

As for the remaining deputies' accrued vacation time, Folger told magistrates he would like a year to bring those hours down to a more manageable amount.

But taking vacation time means less coverage and fewer deputies on duty at a time when calls for assistance are on the rise, he added.

"We've got so many calls, you all really don't know," he said.

Folger told magistrates he believes call volume has almost doubled over the past two years.

Folger would like the county to help cover the costs of the deputies' vacation time so his department can continue to offer 24/7 service at its current level.

Magistrates said they have and will continue to support Folger however they can, but there is no money anywhere in the county's budget that can be freed.

Adams said the county's legal responsibility to cover the sheriff department's costs ends with the fees the sheriff collects from taxes. The county currently goes beyond that responsibility and covers about $340,000 of the sheriff's expenses out of its general fund, he added.

Magistrate David Faulkner said the county's budget is already at a "breaking point."

"I don't think we can pay this," Faulkner said. "We need to find a way for Curt to work this down. ... That's the only way we can pay for it, I think."

Folger acknowledged Oct. 25 that having the county cover all of the deputies' vacation time is probably not a financially possible solution.

"The money's not there," he said. "If they (fiscal court) had the money, I'm sure that they would help."

Folger said if his deputies begin to use up their accrued vacation time, there will be a marked decrease in coverage around the county. During shifts when there previously may have been two or three deputies on duty, there may now only be one.

"There's going to be some slim times for public protection in this county due to us having to have these guys take off," Folger said. "We're not going to quit doing what we're doing, but … some of the calls we have to answer, some might not get taken care of that day or at that quick notice or quick response that we usually give."

Adams said there have been situations as recently as the 1990s when the sheriff's department ran out of money and had to cut back severely on law enforcement coverage.

In a worst-case scenario, if Folger has many deputies leave at the same time and has to pay out their accrued vacation hours, it could mean shutting down a large amount of what the department currently does.

"He'll just have to whittle down those hours," Adams said. "I know it can't be done overnight. … In the long run, if he doesn't control it, it will cause more havoc."

Adams said he believes there are some options for scheduling deputies based on when call loads are heaviest and lightest. Folger can minimize the impact on coverage by using data collected by the local 911 call center, he said.

Reports from Bluegrass 911 showing call activity for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Office from July through September show calls are heaviest from 4 p.m. to midnight and on Thursdays and Fridays.

Folger said calls to 911 only represent one portion of the calls his department deals with. A deputy could get a dozen or more calls via cell phone during a single shift, he estimated.

Folger said he plans on creating a new department vacation policy, based on policies of nearby sheriffs' departments and recommendations from the Kentucky Sheriff's Association.

But even if a new policy helps prevent build-up of vacation hours in the future, the county will then have to deal with a reduced law-enforcement presence.

"There's no answer to the problem," Folger said. "There's no fix."

A night for politics

Candidates make their cases heard during political forum in Stanford

STANFORD — With the general election less than a week away, candidates for many offices in Lincoln County and Stanford spent a couple hours Tuesday night sharing their backgrounds and platforms during a political forum in downtown Stanford.

Candidates for the district three school board seat, circuit court clerk, district two magistrate seat and Stanford City Council took turns answering questions posed by moderator Mark Thompson, pastor at Stanford Christian Church.

The forum was sponsored by the Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce and Stanford-based radio station WPBK 102.9, which broadcast the candidates' responses live.

District three school board

Candidates for the district three school board seat led off the night, discussing where the school district has been and where it is headed.

Incumbent Theresa Long and challenger Michael Gourley focused on improvements made in testing in the past year, while challenger David Hacker emphasized his past experience as a school board member.

Gourley said he has grown tired of hearing people "bashing" Lincoln County's school system for poor performance, but is encouraged by recent improvements.

"I want to see that trend continue," he said.

Long said improvements in Lincoln's school district may often be overlooked and people don't hear enough about the good things that are happening.

"Maybe at one point there was a time when the school board didn't know what was going on, but they're on top of the game now," she said.

Hacker said he served on a school board for eight years in the past, and that experience makes him the most qualified.

"You take my 96 months of experience, you compare it to these two candidates, they have a total between them of six months," he said.

Circuit court clerk

Incumbent Circuit Court Clerk Teresa Reed and challenger Dwight Hopkins were up next, with Reed speaking to her customer service abilities and good rapport with local judges and Hopkins focusing on his background in economics.

Reed said serving as circuit court clerk is "not just a job" for her and she takes pride in helping people who come into her office, whatever their needs may be.

"Whether you have been chosen to serve on jury duty, you have a traffic ticket, you have a court case — sometimes, those things can be overwhelming," she said. "I'm there to help you, explain the process and answer any questions you have."

Hopkins said his degree in economics gives him an edge that will be needed due to an economy that presents "a very formidable challenge."

"I'm more convinced than I was on day one that a person with a good economic background in any elected position in the state of Kentucky is going to be an added plus."

Magistrate candidates Lonnie Pruitt, left, and Bill Dyehouse participate in the forum Tuesday night.

ONLINE

WPBK is offering an archived recording of the entire debate, available for streaming on its website, www.wpbkfm.com.

District two magistrate

Things lightened up when the candidates for district two magistrate — incumbent Bill Dyehouse and challenger Lonnie Pruitt took the stage. Both candidates cracked multiple jokes and got plenty of laughs from the audience.

Pruitt got a big laugh when he explained why he has enjoyed campaigning.

"I told the people campaigning I was kind of excited because I went to one house and a gentlemen who owed me money paid me on the spot," he said.

Dyehouse likewise brought smiles to the audience's face when he shared a conversation he had with Pruitt after the two knew they would be running against each other.

"He (Pruitt) said, 'Bill Dyehouse, I voted for you every time you run for office, and now it's time you should vote for me,'" Dyehouse said. "Lonnie, I'm going to pass on that."

More seriously, the candidates both emphasized the importance of representing the citizens of district two and commended each other for running a clean and friendly campaign.

Dyehouse emphasized his previous experience as magistrate and Crab Orchard mayor, listing off many of the different grants and programs he was able to bring to the area.

Pruitt pointed to his decades of experience as a businessman and his desire to see Lincoln County continue to thrive.

Stanford City Council

Wrapping up the evening were the nine candidates for Stanford City Council, who answered questions focused on the Logan's Fort restoration project, the city arts program and the Stanford Fire Department.

In general, most of the candidates agreed that the Logan's Fort project — if funded by private donations — is a positive thing for Stanford; and that the arts program likewise is a good thing for the city, but should be self-sufficient and given second priority to essential services like police and firefighters.

The six incumbents — Greg Findling, Mike Southerland, Scott Maples, Eddie Carter, Scottie Ernst and Bobby Wilkinson — were largely in agreement that while the fire department had been through a rough patch recently with a shrinking number of volunteers, efforts to recruit more new volunteers and bring back old ones have been successful.

The three challengers — Amy Hazlett, Tom Moser and Naren James — said they knew less about the fire department situation since they have not been serving on city council.

The final round of questions held perhaps the most contentious moment of the night, when Moser said he has heard from many Stanford residents who are unhappy with what the city did with the land along Martin Luther King Jr. Boulevard known as the Creamery Property.

The seven-acre tract in question was bought by the city for $100,000 in 2008.

After several years of unsuccessfully trying to develop and rent out a large building on the property, the city made a land-swap deal with First Southern National Bank in May, giving the bank three acres of the land including the building in exchange for a lot along Lancaster Street in downtown Stanford valued at $80,000.

First Southern also agreed to pay for leveling and paving the Lancaster Street lot, turning it into a parking lot.

Moser said when he figured it out, it will have cost the city $8,500 for each parking space when the lot is completed. Moser called the move a "waste of tax money" and promised "If I'm part of this council, I will not allow it (wasting tax money) to the best of my ability."

Ernst responded to Moser's statements, explaining his belief that making the land-swap was the right move. The city kept four acres of the Creamery Property, so it didn't lose the whole property, he pointed out.

And while the city didn't have the funding to fix up the building so it could be rented out, First Southern does and is planning to, he added.

Ernst said in the end, the Creamery Property will wind up looking nicer — his desire all along — and the city has some much needed downtown parking as well.

Wilkinson then finished the round and the forum off, explaining that he was against purchasing the Creamery Property to begin with and against trading it for a parking lot, but "that's neither here nor there."

"We all make mistakes," he said. "The only way you don't make mistakes is don't do anything."

MURDER

Richie) refused to answer any questions at this time," Folger said last week.

Folger said he hasn't yet determined exactly what Tamara Richie was doing or where she was staying between David Richie's death on Oct. 22 and her arrest on Oct. 25.

Folger said he has receipts for purchases of gas and cigarettes allegedly made by Tamara Richie during that time period.

"We don't know a cause, why she would have done this. It's just a tragedy, a real nice family on both sides. It's real hard to deal with."

Lincoln County Coroner Farris Marcum

"I think she was staying at the house there (792 New Road) but I don't have any 100-percent proof on that," he said.

David Richie's body was taken to Frankfort for an autopsy, which was conducted Oct. 26, Marcum said.

"The autopsy's not going to change anything as far as cause of death, it's just going to confirm what we already know," he said.

Folger the bullet that killed David Richie and the gun allegedly used to fire it will be taken to state police for ballistics testing.

Results from those tests could take about two weeks and will tell authorities whether or not the bullet was fired from the gun recovered by investigators.

Tamara Richie is the sister of Jeree Gilbert, the wife of former Lincoln County Judge-Executive Buckwheat Gilbert.

PVA and local historian David Gambrel said the Richies had been married since Feb. 9, 1985. He described them as a "handsome couple" from "two well-respected families."

"It's kind of unbelievable," Gambrel said.

Marcum said Richie had been an employee of R.R. Donnelly in Danville for many years.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Spurlin Funeral Home in Stanford. Visitation for David Richie was Monday night.

"We don't know a cause, why she would have done this," Marcum said. "It's just a tragedy, a real nice family on both sides. It's real hard to deal with."

Tamara Richie was being held in the Lincoln County Regional Jail without bond as of Tuesday evening.

Bunch repeats as Meet of Champions winner; Carlson finishes fourth

By Nancy Leedy

It wasn't exactly the meet Lincoln's Alex Bunch was looking for to end her final regular season of high school cross country, but, despite a slower time, the Lady Patriot runner captured the girls senior title at the Kentucky Track and Cross Country Coaches Association Meet of Champions Saturday in Lexington.

Bunch had little trouble picking up her second straight title, pulling away from Madison Peace of Walton Verona to win by more than 29 seconds. However, Bunch's time was over a minute and a half slower than her winning pace from last year's meet.

But the Lady Patriot runner, who failed to finish last week's Lexington Catholic Invitational, was more than happy with Saturday's slower first-place time.

"After the race I had the week prior to – that race where I didn't finish –my main goal was to finish this race," Bunch said. "I just wanted to get back to where I finished the race and felt strong. And I did feel strong. It was really windy, and it was very difficult weather to run in, so I wasn't too concerned with time. Honestly, my goal was to just cross the finish line."

> 'My time was really the slowest I've ever run on that course, but I wasn't real upset because of the time. I was happy I finished, and I felt strong, my body felt strong. I was happy with my race, and that's all I could ask for.'

The Lady Patriots' top runner, who won in last year's meet with a time of 18:24.80, covered the 3.1-mile course at Masterson Station Park in 20:01.10.

"My time was really the slowest I've ever run on that course, but I wasn't real upset because of the time," Bunch said. "I was happy I finished, and I felt strong, my body felt strong. I was happy with my race, and that's all I could ask for."

Peace's runner-up time was 20:30.70. Gabriella Sabino of Madison Central crossed the finish line 56 seconds after Bunch to take third place in a time of 20:57.90. Paige Ingram of Pulaski County placed fourth in 21:35.20 and Kady Chaffin of East Carter rounded out the top five with a time of 21:54.70.

Times were slower overall in the race, but Bunch attributed the slower pace to weather and not the course.

"I didn't feel like it was that difficult. I really enjoy that course. I've always enjoyed it. It has it's fair share of hills, but there are a lot of downhills too," she said. "It was cold weather, really cold. I love racing when it's cold, but it was just a big change for all of us because of the drastic change in weather. It just takes a while to adjust to. But I felt strong even with the change in weather. I felt a lot stronger than I did the Saturday before, and that was important."

And why was feeling "strong" so important? Well, Bunch said that a strong finish would better prepare

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL: Patriots begin postseason playoffs at Harlan Co.

By Nancy Leedy

Week 1 of the high school football postseason is here.

For the second season in a row, the Lincoln County football team will face off against Harlan County in the state playoffs.

The District 8 champion Black Bears, who knocked the Patriots out in the second round of playoffs last year, will host Lincoln Friday night at Coal Miners' Memorial Stadium in Baxter at 7:30 p.m. in the first round of the Class 5A state championships.

The Patriots qualified for the playoffs by finishing fourth in District 7 with a record of 2-3.

Harlan, which finished 8-2 overall and 3-0 in its district, is coming off a 40-34 win over Bell County. The Black Bears are led by former Rockcastle County coach Tom Larkey.

Harlan scored 40 points in last week's win over Bell, right at the team's average of 39.4 points per game. The Black Bears have been stingy when it comes to points allowed, giving up just 18.8 points per game.

The Black Bears march ahead full steam into the playoffs, winning eight of their last nine games, including their final five games. The only blemishes on Harlan's record this season were a 35-25 loss to Morristown-Hamblen West (Tenn.) on opening week and a 12-6 loss to Knox Central on Sept. 21.

Harlan relies on the running attack offensively, with 3,789 of their 4,226 total yards coming on the ground. Senior running back Jake Middleton has eaten up defenses this season, getting 1,757 yards and 24 touchdowns on 219 carries.

Carson Whitehead leads the Black Bear defense with 169 tackles. Middleton and Cole Wilson also making their presence known to opposing offenses with 86 tackles and 79 tackles, respectively,

The Patriots are 5-5 overall heading into the playoffs and are coming off an open week.

After starting out 3-1 against its early-season schedule of Casey County (3-7), Danville (7-3), Washington County (2-8) and Garrard County (6-4), Lincoln fell on hard times, dropping three straight games, including back-to-back district losses – Pulaski County (35-17) and Madison Southern (47-19). The Patriots rebounded in week 7 to rout South Laurel 63-20 then clinched a playoff berth the following week with a 24-14 win at Southwestern.

Lincoln closed the regular season with a loss as North Laurel claimed third place in the district with a 35-14 win.

Offensively, the Patriots have scored 270 points and gained almost 2,000 yards rushing (1,992) with a high game of 348 against South Laurel.

Logan Martin and Marvin Robinson lead Lincoln on the ground, combining for over 1,100 yards and 17 touchdowns on 228 carries. Martin, a senior, is the leading rusher with 661 yards and 11 touchdowns on 135 carries and Robinson, a junior, has 504 yards and six touchdowns on 93 carries.

Quarterback Justin Hubble is 51-for-106 for 593 yards with five interceptions. He has thrown for five touchdowns. Austin Cress is Lincoln's top receiver with 11 receptions for 240 yards and four touchdowns. Trevor Gaines has 21 receptions for 206 yards.

Defensively, Lincoln has given up 280 points per game and allowed 1,971 rushing yards and 1,137 passing yards.

her for this weekend's Class 3A, Region 7 championships in London, where she hopes to claim a fifth regional title.

"I needed like the confidence boost for region, finishing with a pretty strong race," said Bunch. "Even knowing I need to run a little faster at region, (the win) helped me because I feel I can still get a good time at region. We've stepped up our training a lot so I think I'm real strong and prepared to do it."

Bunch is training rigorously each day in preparation for regionals at North Laurel High School, however, she admits that she just wants the race to be fun.

"It's the first place I ever ran region at, my seventh-grade year. And it's my last region, so I want to enjoy it," she said.

No other Lady Patriot or Patriot runner could match Bunch's winning performance at the Meet of Champions, but Lincoln did have runners competing in nine of the 14 races contested.

Lady Patriot runner Morgan Gourley placed 22nd out of a field of 57 in the girls varsity freshman 5K race, posting a time of 22:10.90.

Brian Carlson, Lincoln's only competitor in the boys sophomore varsity race, had Lincoln's next best finish behind Bunch, finishing fourth in the 5K with a time of 17:10.10.

Lincoln had two runners on course in the junior boys varsity run, with Jordon Smith and Luke Shofner representing the Patriots. Smith placed 30th out of a field of 93 in a time of 19:03.90 and Shofner was 82nd in 23:01.10.

The Meet of Champions was not limited to varsity competition, with the middle school, sixth-grade and fourth-grade championships also decided on Saturday.

Katherine Rowe, a sixth-grade runner for the Lady Patriots, posted Lincoln's best finish of the middle school and elementary state championships, placing 75th out of 340 girls. Her time in the sixth-grade 3K was 13:54.90.

Josh Adkins remembered

LINCOLN COUNTY paid a special tribute to the late Josh Adkins during football Senior Night. Adkins, who lost his fight with cancer as a child, would have been a senior on this year's football team. In tribute to the former athlete, Patriot football coach Mike Settles presented Josh's parents, Lisa Adkins and Paul Adkins, at right, with a shadowbox holding a No. 33 Adkins jersey. Settles made the presentation to the Adkins' at the conclusion of the Senior Night program.

Spurlin to play Nov. 5 at Rupp Arena in Transy/UK exhibition game

Former Lincoln County standout Ethan Spurlin and his Transylvania University men's basketball team will take on the University of Kentucky in an exhibition game Nov. 5 at Rupp Arena in Lexington.

Tip-off for the game between the Pioneers and the Wildcats is set for 8 p.m. The game will be televised on FS South.

Tickets for the contest are available on-line through TicketMaster and the ukathletics.com web site. Tickets are also available at the UK ticket office.

Spurlin, the son of Barry Spurlin and Kathy Spurlin, notched 12 points in Transy's exhibition game with UK last season.

Spurlin, who was named to the NABC's All-Midwest District first team as well as to the D3hoops.com All-Midwest Region squad last year, led Transy to the Heartland Conference regular season championship in 2012 and to an at-large bid to the NCAA Championship. It was the Pioneers fourth national tournament appearance in the last seven years.

Spurlin, a 6-4, 215-pound senior forward, led Transy in scoring as a junior with 16.8 points a game and in rebounding with 6.4 boards a contest. He was the HCAC Player of the Year and a member of the All-HCAC first team.

The Transy-UK exhibition is the first game on the Pioneers' schedule for the 2012-13 season. Regular season play begins on Nov. 16-17 when Transy participates in the new Hoopsville National Invitational Classic in Baltimore. The first home game at the Beck Center is on Dec. 5 against HCAC rival Earlham.

ETHAN SPURLIN of Transylvania goes inside for a shot in this file photo from the 2011-12 season.

FARM FACTS

By Dan Grigson
Lincoln County Extension Office

Timely farming tips

The weather has been "chilly" the past few mornings which makes us want to find a warm place on the inside to hide from the cold. Farmers as you know, don't have that luxury. You still have every day chores to do and other practices to take care of for next year's crops. I want to remind you about some of those fall chores in my comments this week. Attention to these matters will be profitable.

FERTILIZE FIELDS IN FALL TO SAVE TIME AND MONEY

Farmers can save valuable springtime hours by fertilizing and liming fields in the fall. Why is that so important? It's a job that's out of the way. Although we can't forecast the weather for next spring, jobs might stack up because of it, and fertilizing and liming in the fall can eliminate at least one thing to think about later.

Fall application of lime provides the additional advantage of giving the field a whole winter to react with the lime and bring about any needed change. Also, fall fertilizer applications could mean farmers might get a price break when buying fertilizer.

All the phosphate and potash needs can be spread in the fall because they react tightly enough with soil to prevent overwinter leaching losses. However, farmers have to be careful not to spread nitrogen in the fall unless there's a crop growing that needs it such as small grains. For next year's crops, don't spread nitrogen now as it will wash or leach away by the time you plant your 2013 crop.

DON'T SPREAD BLACK SHANK

Farmers whose tobacco crop was infected with black shank should take special precautions to avoid spreading the disease during and after stripping their tobacco for market. Black shank can be spread easily throughout the farm by careless handling of stalks and debris left in the stripping room. Growers should remember that black shank is a fungus that produces spores that can be found in the lower stalk and attached soil during curing. These spores can be transferred to other areas, if the debris is spread onto pastures, drainage ditches, cattle paths or fields. The best way to avoid introducing black shank into previously uncontaminated areas is to burn stalks and other debris. If burning is not your choice, then stalks and debris should be put back into the same fields from which they were removed. At least this way, you are not moving them to a new site.

EVALUATE ALFALFA STANDS NOW

November is a good time to evaluate alfalfa stands so you can develop strategies to maintain productivity. If you wait until spring to check stand thickness and health, it's too late to take corrective actions. Checking stands this fall gives you time to evaluate and carry out options to help thin stands reach their production potential next spring.

To produce maximum hay fields, a stand should have two to three healthy plants per square foot. Overseeding with red clover or using a fall dormant herbicide are two ways to improve thin stands. You can overseed with red clover in late winter (February), allowing freezing or thawing to work seed into the soil. An alternative is to seed red clover into stands using a no-till drill in February and March. Using a fall dormant herbicide extends stand life by reducing winter weed encroachment. Several herbicides are available now and most should be used in late November or in December. Some of these herbicides can be tough or even kill your grasses. Let's talk about your herbicide use before you spray.

A good fertilization program also helps to thicken up stands. Fall is the time to apply the phosphate and potash so it has time to react with the soil and have the alfalfa ready for a quick jump next spring. Get those soil tests done and apply needed fertilizer and lime now.

FSA County Committee voting to begin Nov. 5

The 2012 FSA County Committee election will be held Nov. 5 through Dec. 3. Committee members apply their knowledge and judgment to make decisions on disaster and conservation payments, establishment of allotments and yields, producer appeals, employing FSA county executive directors and other local issues that affect their communities.

To be an eligible voter, farmers and ranchers must participate or cooperate in FSA programs. A person who is not of legal voting age, but supervises and conducts the farming operations of an entire farm, can also vote. Agricultural producers in each county submitted candidate names during the nomination period held during the summer.

Eligible voters who do not receive a ballot can obtain ballots at their local USDA Service Center. December 3 is the last day for voters to submit ballots in person to local USDA Service Centers. Ballots returned by mail must be postmarked no later than Dec. 3.

Newly elected committee members and alternates take office Jan. 1, 2013.

Lincoln County's election is for a person to represent LAA 2, which includes land in Lincoln County that is south of Hwy. 78 and west of Hwy. 27.

Producers nominated this year are:

Craig Chaney manages a 300 acre farming operation, with his father Bruce Chaney in Lincoln County.

Craig lives in the McKinney community of Lincoln County, and was raised on a farm. He attended Eastern Kentucky University, and in 2008 earned his Bachelor's Degree in Agriculture and began farming full-time alongside his father. The Chaneys grow corn, soybeans, wheat and alfalfa. His current farming interests consist of expanding their operation to include feeder cattle.

Joy Vanhook, of the Angel Ridge community in Lincoln County, has been farming since the 1970's. For many of those years, she raised tobacco alongside her late husband. She has also operated her father's farm. Today, Joy owns a farm consisting of about 250 acres. She has cattle and hay, and her son Jeremy Vanhook tends corn and soybeans on the farm.

Joy has previously served in the role of Advisor for the County Committee. She was elected in 2010 and is currently serving as a member on the County Committee.

Acreage reporting has new deadline

Lincoln County Farm Service Agency (FSA) County Director Dana McKinney, reminds producers that crop reporting deadlines for fall barley, fall wheat, other fall-seeded small grains and peaches have changed for the 2013 crop year. The new deadlines are:

· Dec. 15, 2012 - Fall Barley, Fall Wheat, and all other Fall-Seeded Small Grains

· Jan. 15, 2013 – Peaches

McKinney says farmers must file their reports accurately and timely for all crops and land uses, including prevented and failed acreage, to ensure they receive the maximum FSA program benefits possible.

Producers should visit their County FSA Office to complete acreage reporting. For questions on this or any FSA program, contact the County Office or online at www.fsa.usda.gov.

MEET THE LINCOLN CANDIDATES

CIRCUIT COURT CLERK

Dwight Hopkins

Republican Party

Hello everyone. I am Dwight Hopkins candidate for Circuit Court Clerk. I have been married for 18 years to my lovely wife Kimberly and we have one daughter Marlie Frances Hopkins aged 1. I have served my country as a veteran of the United States Army(Airborne Infantry), and a graduate of EKU with a degree in Economics.

I also have a solid accounting background at EKU. For a Circuit Clerk who will run the office conservatively while being a good steward for you the taxpayer, vote on November 6. I have been to approximately 5,000 households in the last 7 months to show each of you that I am interested in what YOU are looking for in your next Circuit Court Clerk.

I will be a clerk accountable to the people treating each and every citizen promptly, courteously, and as family. As a veteran, I ask each of you to let your voice be heard. Please join my family and I on November 6 with your vote and support.

Teresa Reed

From C4

CRAB ORCHARD CITY COMMISSION

Committee and the Broughtontown Community Center.

In 2009 I ran for City Commissioner along with Juanita Pettit, Randall Price and Betty Fields. In the past two years we have worked to improve the town and listened to our citizens.

We have accomplished much from collecting long overdue property taxes, occupational taxes, improving the sidewalks and streets safer, tearing down the abandoned houses and buildings. Much more is needed, so please get out and vote for your Commissioners.

Thank you very much for your vote, Phyllis Adams.

Donna Harris

Hello, my name is Donna Harris and I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself as a candidate for the Crab Orchard City Council. I have lived in Crab Orchard, Kentucky for more than 30 years and can't imagine my life anywhere's other than this wonderful community.

For those of you that do not know me, you may have known by my beloved husband, Kevin Harris whom recently passed away March 4th, 2012. This was a devastating loss for me but it is now my wish to represent this community and see that the area in which my husband and I made our home is well represented and be the best that it can be. I truly care for the people of Crab Orchard and will make every effort to see that your opinions are stated and heard.

I am asking for your vote on November 6th, 2012. If I am elected I promise to be devoted and strive to make OUR TOWN the very best that it can be. Thank you in advance for your vote and may God Bless you and your families.

Juanita Pettit

My name is Juanita Pettit and I am currently the Streets/Road and Fire Commissioner for the City of Crab Orchard and have been for the past 2 years.

I live on Chestnut Street in Crab Orchard with my husband of 18 years, Larry Pettit. I have 2 sons, Joshua and Jonathan Sowder and a step daughter, Kristy Moore. I have four wonderful grandchildren. I have lived in Crab Orchard most of my life and I am seeking re-election on November 6th.

In my term as Commissioner, I have established the first crosswalks and the first handicap parking in the city. I have improved the storm drainage system on Main Street also replaced over 90 feet of new sidewalk. I have been a part of the team who has been working diligently on the new park along with our Mayor, Bill Shelton and the other Commissioners, Randall Price, Phyllis Adams, Betty Fields and our City Clerk, Nancy Baker. Right now I am working on our Safe Routes To School Project which is our sidewalks on Elm Street. There are a lot of other projects that has been done, and many projects left to do.

If re-elected, I will strive to get these projects accomplished to improve our city. I must say the past 2 years has been an experience and I have learned a great deal. I encourage everyone to get out and vote on November 6th; let's make a difference in our community.

Thank you for your vote, Juanita Pettit.

Randall Price

My name is Randall Price and I currently am the Water/Wastewater Commissioner for the City of Crab Orchard. I have been the Water/Wastewater Commissioner for the past 2 years. I currently reside in Crab Orchard with my wife Tasha Manuel Price, and 3 kids, Austin, Tyler and Trinity. I have lived in Crab Orchard my entire life and am currently running for re-election for Water/Wastewater Commissioner.

In my term I as Commissioner I have been able to pay off early 2 loans from Rural Development which the city has acquired. We also had received a grant from CDBG and KIA to replace 12 miles of old water line from our master meter in Lancaster to our water tank in Crab Orchard. This grant will pay to replace the old 4" cast iron existing water lines which were installed in 1968 with new 10" pvc lines. With the increased line size our customers on Hwy 39 N will now be able to have fire hydrants strategy placed along the highway in order to help with fire prevention. The new lines will also decrease the current water loss due to leaks and breaks and will increase general water flow.

My plans if re-elected will be to install radio-read water meters within the entire customer base in Crab Orchard. The radio read-meters will have a more accurate reading, decrease man hours and decrease maintenance of all old existing meters. I also plan to upgrade our sewer system to prevent infiltration and upgrade our sewer lift stations.

I want to take this time to express my appreciation for all that voted for me in the last election and want to ask for your vote again on November 6th. I thank you for your vote.

Randall Price

John Ryan

Hello my name is John Ryan and I would like to start by saying how truly blessed I am to get the opportunity to run for the officer of commissioner in Crab Orchard. That is one of the many freedoms that have been earned for us by the brave men and women of our armed forces, and they should not be forgotten. I would just like to take a minute of your time to tell you what I stand for and why I decided to run for office.

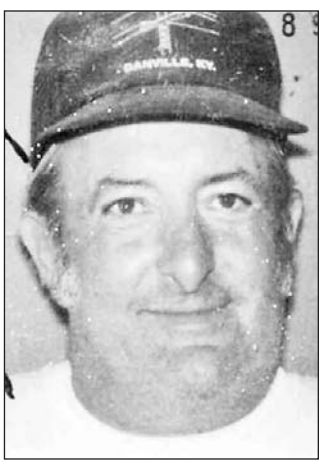

I firmly believe that in order for us to move ahead we need to fix our current problems and not try to avoid them. For example the missing equipment problem that we have been having is taking money out of the budget and if we don't enact the proper policies then it is going to be a recurring problem.

I believe we can come up with a inventory plan for the equipment in which we would document everything we have, using photographs, descriptions and serial numbers put into a computerized as well as paper file program, and have a simple check in/out program for the employees that use the equipment, so we would be able to know who used what and when. Then at least one time a month one of the commissioners goes through and does inventory.

I believe that we must do stuff like this to have a firm foundation for growth in our town. Now one thing I want everyone to know is that I am not a politician, but I am a civil servant to the people. Lastly, I would like to extend my wish that people from different generations work together in making this an even better place to live. So thanks in advance for your vote.

Billy Wilburn

Hello, my name is Billy Wilburn and I am running for Crab Orchard City Council. I grew up and have lived in Crab Orchard all my life. Everyone who knows me knows that I am an honest and trustworthy person who loves his family and cares about the Community where we live.

I am well aware of some of the problems facing our Community And will try my best, if elected, to help fix some of these problems.

On a lighter note of thought, Because everyone knows me I didn't think I needed to place any unwanted campaign signs in the yards or on the sides of the roads.

I also didn't want to bother anyone by knocking on their doors. Your vote on Nov. 6 will be greatly appreciated. Thank you in advance for your vote of confidence in this election

Citizens of Stanford

It has been a honor and a privilege to serve you as Mayor and as a city council member for many years. I ask and will greatly appreciate your vote on November 6th.

Scottie Ernst

The past two years city council has had to make some tough decisions on annexation, budget cuts and how to get the most bang for the buck with the monies we have had to work with. Our city has finally grown in size which has given us more revenue to finally start paying off debit, slowly begin able to build a reserve for future and unexpected expenses without having to borrow money to pay for those items and in general have money to operate.

Our sewer plant has been expanded for growth now and in the future, Logan and Mill streets have been improved, an additional parking lot has been added to downtown, the arts center is giving our citizens a place to go for entertainment and social activities, your water lines are slowly being replaced for better water pressure, your fire department is growing in number of volunteers for better fire protection. We are on the move! Slowly, but still improving.

I ask that you keep me on your city council not only to watch how your money is spent but more effectively. I ask for your vote for city council and please come to your city council meetings. Thank You!

Amy Hazlett

My name is Amy Rice Hazlett. I have been a resident of Stanford my entire life and over the past couple of years have become very interested in my local government. I am a licensed insurance agent with State Farm Insurance in Stanford. I am married to Harry, who is a Lexington police officer, and together we have four children: Ian, Mac, Katy & Lily.

During the 2010 general election I contributed a lot of my time in support of the annexation of the area behind Stanford Elementary School. Since I call this neighborhood my home I was eager to invest my tax dollars into a city that I truly love and support. Since then I have attended several council meetings and researched how our city government operates. After much prayer, I decided to seek this position on Stanford City Council.

My purpose on city council will be simple…cut unnecessary spending, reduce debt, and provide sufficient available funding to city departments and programs. Creating a reserve will allow our city to stop borrowing money to pay for things such as road improvements and unexpected expenses. I will support a city budget that provides appropriate funding to the programs and services that make Stanford the great city that it is.

Further, I believe our government should be transparent. Income, expenses and project information should be readily available to all taxpayers. As a councilmember, I vow to make this a priority. I will ensure that public information is easily available to any taxpayer as requested.

In closing, I would like to ask you for your vote on November 6th. I will serve as an honest and fair representative of your tax dollars. I hope to be a true asset to our city government.

Naren James

My name is Naren James and I am seeking a seat on the Stanford City Council. I am a physician and owner of the Bluegrass Clinic in Stanford and my business and residence has been in this community for over 15 years. When my family and I arrived in Stanford we decided not just to live here but to contribute to our local community.

To this extent I have been actively involved in civic affairs from the begining. I have been a consistent member as well as served on the board of directors of the Stanford Chamber of Commerce. I am a member of the Stanford Rotary Club and served in many capacities at Fort Logan hospital, currently as the president of the medical staff.

My most memorable involvement was with the local library as chair of the fundraising committee and the building committee. Today I share in the pride of all Stanford residents in the new Lincoln County Library which is a great addition to our downtown.

Fundraiser for injured boy attracts hundreds

Parking lots were packed out in downtown Stanford Sunday while hundreds of people participated in a special event aimed at helping cover medical costs for a Stanford boy.

Jalen Smith, 8, suffered a severe leg injury during a church hayride accident at the Lincoln County Fairgrounds Sept. 16.

Emergency responders were able to prevent Smith from losing too much blood and he was airlifted to the University of Kentucky Children's Hospital, where he stayed for three weeks before recovering enough to return home.

Sunday's event featured cornhole, a silent auction, vendors, Zumba and more.

Use your KY X-tra app on your smartphone or tablet to view bonus online content with this story.

Family friend Brook Stone said the day was an "amazing success" and raised an undisclosed amount of money, which will be used to pay for one of Smith's medical bills.

At right, Smith is pushed out of the city garage with a smile on his face during the event. Below, a crowd mills through items up for sale in the silent auction at L&N Depot.

STANFORD CITY COUNCIL

If given the opportunity to serve by my fellow citizens I intend to work in cooperation with the mayor and other council members to improve the city of Stanford for all residents. Please remember to vote for me on November 6.

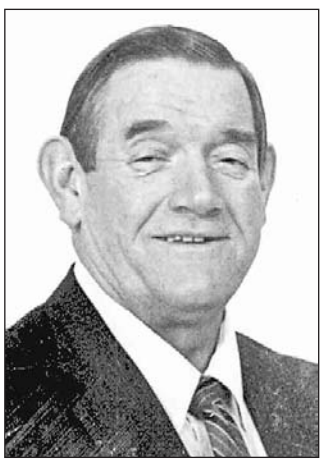

Scott Maples

I'm Scott Maples and I am running for re-election to represent you on the Stanford City Council. I'm 43 years old employeed by Simplex Grinnell in Lexington and graduated from Lincoln County High School in 1987 I have lived in Stanford and Lincoln County my whole life, and excited for the opportunity to again represent my community. I have been involved in numerous volunteer roles in our community for many years. I currently volunteer for the Stanford Fire Department and serve as Vice Chairman on the Stanford EMS Board Of Directors.

My goals as a council member is to create a atmosphere were people want to live and stay in Stanford, and also create a healthy small business environment. This is done by the city keeping taxes low, maintain fisical discipline, maintaine a healthy reserve fund and protecting public safety by supporting police and fire protection. I think Stanford has great potential and even more than some cities our size. We have a rich history, an excellent healthcare system, police/fire protection, water/sewer infrastructure, two major highways and great people.

Being accessible to you and hearing your ideas and concerns is important for me, after all that is what goverment small or large is about.

Thank you for your consideration.

Tom Moser

I'm Tom Moser. I'm 72 years old. I retired from state government in December 2004 as a shift captain at North Point Training Center, a medium security institution. As a shift captain I was supervisor to 90 other supervisors and officers. It was my responsibility to give a budget for the shift for the coming year, also to see that all staff received their annual training, vacations, and keep overtime to a minimum.

I've lived in Stanford for the majority of my life and I greatly care for the city of Stanford and its future. I would like to say that there have been a lot of changes for the good and Main street looks as good as any in the area. But it is also time to move on to areas outside of Main street to maintain and improve the streets and sidewalks and make other improvements that benefit all the people who are paying the taxes in the city and not just main street.

It's unlikely that Stanford will ever be as we remember it in the late 1940s through the 1970s when there were 90 to 100 businesses along main street and inside the city limits.

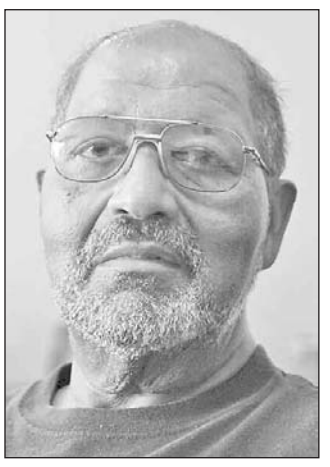

The City cannot afford mistakes like the purchase of the old Stanford Creamery for $ 100,000.00 dollars with very little thought of its use and value.

I have been asked about the Logan Fort. I feel that I cannot vote to spend tax dollars from the city on this project. Federal and state grants, donations and fund raisers must be used in this endeavor.

Problems I see for the future of Stanford are the loss of state and federal monies and nepotism that appears to be in all departments of city government. Nepotism undermines public trust. Stanford deserves better.

It's a privilege to have served. This will be my third time serving if I win. I won't make any promises because they could be broken but I will do my best to serve the city of Stanford.
